Had to give up my iPod oooooold and now I am looking to buy a used iPod Touch 5th generation, but I need to be sure that it can work with the iTunes on my Mac. I don't know if it's the material that must be compatible (in which case any occasion 5 g will be fine for me) or the iOS? I know that the 5g would work with iTunes 10.7 initially, but as I understand it, the iOS is automatically upgraded to 9.x when the 'old' is wiped out and restarted... so can a used 5g with iOS 9 works for me, or I'm stuck? (And if I'm stuck, is a 4 used old enough that he will not automatically at level that far?) The last iOS, 9.2.1 requires iTunes 112.3 or later. For a Mac mean OSX 10.8.5 or later version. For a PC Win 7 or later iPod Classic will not sync with iTunes I have a 30 GB iPod Classic model PA002LL. After the recent update, I can no longer sync my iPod with iTunes on Windows. It's not to recognize that the iPod is connect. I have already uninstalled iTunes and reinstalled to see if that could fix the problem, but I had no luck with that. However, the computer recognizes it because it will charge the unit. What should I do so that it can synchronize? Thank you! What antivirus software do you use?
